Oliver is recommended as a Leading Junior by Legal 500, where he is described as “very charismatic”, with “commanding authority” and the “sufficient gravitas that you want in an advocate”.

He acts across a broad range of commercial matters, including contractual claims, business protection, and related advisory work. He is regularly instructed both led and unled in High Court and tribunal proceedings, where he is known for his effective advocacy and pragmatic, client-focused approach to complex cases.

Oliver has particular experience in professional discipline and regulatory matters, acting in proceedings involving a range of professionals, many of which involve allegations of professional negligence or fraud. His practice extends to sports-related disputes, including arbitration proceedings, alongside his broader commercial and professional liability work.
